MAY HIGHLIGHTS

- Needle in a Haystack – How do you find exotic molecules halfway across the galaxy?
- Dropping like Flies – Or, in this case, bats! Scientists remain puzzled over a disease affecting large populations of New York state's hibernating bats.
- Aloha, Gobi Desert! – Dust from as far as China can interfere with atmospheric measurements at Hawaii's Mauna Loa observatory.
- Plus – Birdwatching with a legendary ornithologist, return of the Hungarian storks, and more!

To learn more, tune in.

We invite fans of Pulse of the Planet to visit our newly designed website - pulseplanet.com. You'll find Science Diary blogs, Audio Adventures, Listeners' Favorites and a wealth of great sounds. Pulse of the Planet CDs are ideal premiums for fundraising.

You should always receive your Pulse CD by the 25th of the month preceding broadcast. If it fails to arrive, please call Murray Street Enterprise right away at 1-800-793-1673, so that we can issue a timely replacement.
